Raising Kids In A New Kind of World - From MSN to piercing, children and teenagers are living in a social environment very different from the one their parents and teachers grew up in. How do we raise our children in such a new world? What are the new rules? Do any of the old rules still apply? This workshop will deal with some of the most pressing issues facing parents and teachers today: the internet, video games, bullying, and keeping the lines of communication open.

Michael Reist is a teacher with over 25 years of classroom experience and is currently head of the English Department at Robert F. Hall C.S.S. He is a frequent speaker to local parent groups and education conferences on bullying and how boys and girls learn differently. Michael is the author of "The Dysfunctional School: Uncomfortable Truths and Awkward Insights on School, Learning and Teaching." He has written numerous articles on education, spirituality and parenting.
